

Fact Sheet: You Tested Positive for COVID-19

Now What?

You must STAY HOME & REMAIN ISOLATED from other household members & pets

For How Long?

- Plan to stay isolated until 10 days have passed since symptoms began AND 24 hours after you no longer have a fever (without fever-reducing medicine such as Tylenol or Advil)
 - AND symptoms have improved.
- NOTE: If you have not had any symptoms and do not develop any symptoms, isolation can end 10 days after the day you were tested for COVID-19.

Protecting Yourself & Others

Stay home except to get medical care

- Do not go to work, school, run errands or go to other public places.
- Do not use public transportation, ride-sharing or taxis.

Separate yourself from other people & pets in your home

- Stay in a room away from others & use a separate bathroom, if possible.
- Maintain at least 6 feet physical distance & wear a face mask when you are around others.
- Do not share food, drinks, dishes, towels, bedding or other household items with other people or pets.

Keep track of your symptoms

- Record your temperature with date and time twice a day.
- Call your healthcare provider if you feel worse or have difficulty breathing. Call 911 in an emergency & let them know you have tested positive for COVID-19.

Clean & sanitize

- Cover coughs and sneezes. After using tissues, throw them in a lined trash can, & wash hands.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water, or alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid touching your face with unwashed hands.
- Clean & disinfect high-touch surfaces. Wear disposable gloves while handling laundry. Dry clothes at the warmest appropriate temperature. Use a dishwasher, if possible.

Instructions for People in Your Household

All household members are close contacts and must quarantine for 14 days after their last exposure to you. If you cannot isolate yourself from your household members, their quarantine starts when your isolation ends.

Quarantine means staying at home, except to get medical care:

- They cannot go to work, school, run errands or go to other public places.
- They cannot not use public transportation, ride-sharing or taxis.
- When possible, people within your household should try to quarantine separately.

Watch for symptoms:

- Symptoms include: new cough, new shortness of breath, fever over 100-degrees, fatigue, muscle or body aches, headache, new loss of taste or smell, sore throat, congestion or runny nose including mild allergy-like symptoms, nausea, vomiting or diarrhea.
- If symptoms develop, they should contact their healthcare provider, or get tested at the community drive through testing site. For details: see covid.riverstonehealth.org.
- They should call their healthcare provider if they feel worse or have difficulty breathing. Call 911 in an emergency & let them know they live in a household of someone who has tested positive for COVID-19 and are a close contact.

Instructions for Other Close Contacts

To stop the spread of the virus, please identify who might be your close contacts and let those close contacts know they may have been exposed and what they must do.

A close contact is someone who was within 6 feet of you for more than 15 minutes within 24 hours when you had symptoms or tested positive, or 2 days before then.

What Should My Close Contacts Do?

All close contacts must quarantine for up to 14 days after their exposure to you. That means staying at home, except to get medical care:

- They cannot go to work, school, run errands or go to other public places.
- They cannot not use public transportation, ride-sharing or taxis.
- If possible, they should try to quarantine separately from their family members.

Please let them know what to do if they develop symptoms:

- They should call their healthcare provider or get tested at the community drive-through testing site.
- If their symptoms worsen, or they have difficulty breathing, they should call their healthcare provider, or call 911 in an emergency & let them know they are quarantining after exposure to a postive case of COVID-19.
